John Smith then spoke of a contact with the township by Lindsey Kreider. She asked if there was anything which could be done about her neighbors. One was that they were having loud bon fires. The second was that her neighbors chickens were invading her yard and causing damage. Chairman Lafy took this opportunity to query the boy scouts for their opinions. Each gave a concise and admirable answer. The subject was then discussed by the supervisors and it was decided to inquire with the State Police regarding the disturbing the peace per the first issue and to inform the homeowner that the chicken issue was a civil matter. Chairman Lafy would contact the State Police and Ms. Krieder.

Under old business, a quick review of the existing bridge projects took place. Chairman Lafy then advanced the issue about all the "small" bridges in the township. As plans were already underway to replace two major bridges, he felt it was time to address the smaller ones. While there was nothing urgent per this issue, it is to be placed on the agenda for upcoming meetings.

A general shape of the township signs was discussed.

The township solicitor had contacted the supervisors regarding the Insinger mutual release. The supervisors would sign the document whence it was located. No vote was needed on this issue due to it having already been voted upon to move forward in this direction.

Lafy reported on the progress of cleaning out Deer Lick Creek.

Spaulding Road was discussed regarding whether or not the survey had been filed with the county. The subject will remain on the agenda until fully resolved.

Lafy reported on the illegal junk yard in the township. The property owner had noted he would start removing the vehicles when he could get into his fields.

John Smith gave an update on the David Gaskill property regarding the septic system.

The meeting was adjourned 7:50 PM
